Hi Fashions students. My name is Bernadette Mirro and I am your library liaison. I’ve created the website you are viewing this video on to give you resources specific to your research topics. Along the top you can see the resources are divided by tabs: there are databases, eBooks, books, citation information and the last tab is the help tab. There you can find my contact information, where you can make a research appointment with me, email me or use the chat function for help. The bottom line is librarians are here to help you with your research throughout your entire career at Marymount. So please get in touch if you need any help.
